2 THE COURT: All right. We are here for charge
3 conference and you all received the draft from yesterday, 4 right?

5 MR. SKINNER: Yes, your Honor.

6 THE COURT: And I have received a letter from the 7 government and a letter from Mr. Creizman on the fundamental 8 ambiguity language. I don't know how you all want to do it, if 9 you want to go section by section or page by page. I am open 10 to whatever you think is the most efficient.

11 MR. FISCHETTI: Your Honor, we have gone over this, 12 there is very few suggestions we would have so I would think 13 for economy of time, if your Honor would just ask what we 14 object to, what we would like to change, it would be easier 15 than going page by page.

16 THE COURT: That's fine.

17 MR. SKINNER: Look. I want to get this done as 18 efficiently as possible too. Maybe if we say -- I do think it 19 makes sense to go in order so we don't miss something through.
20 Why don't we say our first proposed change is on page 18. Does 21 the defense have anything before that?

22 MR. GARBER: No.

23 MR. FISCHETTI: Not from me.

24 THE COURT: If you want, you can be seated during 25 this, as long as you are speaking into the microphone.

DAi5zem1

Charge Conference

1 MR. SKINNER: Thank you, your Honor.

2 On page 18 our only suggested revision, and it tracks 3 through to three paragraphs of the immunity, is removing the 4 language with respect to non-prosecution because we actually 5 did not have any witnesses who received a non-prosecution 6 agreement.

7 So, for instance, in the first sentence delete 8 everything after, "formal immunity," to the end of the 9 sentence.

10 MR. GERMAN: Well, and in the next sentence, rather 11 than saying with respect to both categories of witnesses, 12 delete that phrase and just start with, "The testimony of these 13 witnesses may not be used against him or her."

14 THE COURT: So, the non-prosecution language doesn't 15 cover the cooperation agreements?

16 MR. SKINNER: No. We have a separate charge that 17 precedes this with respect to cooperating witnesses. The 18 non-prosecution agreement is something different.

19 THE COURT: Right.

20 MR. SKINNER: And it is akin to a cooperation 21 agreement but it is not the same and --

22 THE COURT: We didn't have any.

23 MR. SKINNER: There were no witnesses that testified 24 pursuant to a non-pros.

25 THE COURT: Is there any objection after the

DAi5zem1

Charge Conference

1 parenthetical that is called "Formal Immunity" taking out of 2 the rest of the sentence. Is that right?

3 MR. SKINNER: Precisely, your Honor. So, just delete 4 the rest of that sentence; in the next sentence then delete, 5 "with respect to both categories of witnesses."

6 MR. GARBER: So, it would be deleted from the word -- 7 well, formal immunity, end paren, comma, from or all the way 8 down to the end of that sentence is out?

10 MR. GARBER: Okay.

11 THE COURT: And then we take out with respect to both 12 categories of witnesses and start with, "the testimony."

13 MR. SKINNER: And change "the" to "these witnesses."

14 MR. GERMAN: Your Honor, I would just ask then where 15 does the -- although they weren't testifying witnesses, 16 certainly Mr. Sukhman's father and wife, although they didn't 17 testify there was certainly an acknowledgment that they would 18 not be prosecuted for Mr. Sukhman's cooperation. So, I mean, 19 maybe we just need to rephrase that but I think we have to 20 capture the fact that --

21 MR. SKINNER: No. That's not right. I'm sorry. We 22 are talking here about what should be done with respect to 23 witnesses who testified in the case and the analysis the jury 24 should give to their testimony. Mr. Sukhman's father and wife 25 did not receive non-prosecution agreements first. Second of

DAi5zem1

Charge Conference

1 all, they didn't testify.

2 Defense can make whatever arguments they want to make 3 about Mr. Sukhman's credibility and how it was influenced by 4 promises that he testified to but it has nothing do with this 5 instruction.

6 THE COURT: Okay.

7 MR. SKINNER: In the first paragraph on page 19, then, 8 just delete the second sentence in its entirety.

9 MR. CREIZMAN: I'm sorry. I could not hear that.

10 MR. SKINNER: The first paragraph of page 19, delete 11 the second sentence starting with, "similarly, the government 12 is permitted to enter into non-prosecution agreements."

13 THE COURT: Wait. You're on page 19?

14 MR. SKINNER: According to my version, yes, your 15 Honor.

16 THE COURT: I'm sorry, yes. "Similarly," yes.

17 MR. SKINNER: And then the next paragraph after that, 18 the first sentence just have, "However, the testimony of a 19 witness who has been granted immunity by the Court," delete "or 20 who have been given a written non-prosecution agreement by the 21 government," and then go right to, "should be examined by you 22 with great care."

23 THE COURT: Okay. Anything else on 19? What is your 24 next?

25 MR. SKINNER: Your Honor, the government's next

DAi5zem1

Charge Conference

1 comment would be on page 28. I don't know if the defendants 2 have anything before that.

3 MR. GARBER: Okay. We have stuff, I believe, before 4 that. I apologize, no, we don't. We're 29.

5 MR. SKINNER: Okay. On 28, your Honor, with respect 6 to the RICO charge in the -- I guess I don't know how to 7 describe it, the one, two, three, four, five, six -- seventh 8 line up from the bottom?

9 THE COURT: This is on 28?

10 MR. SKINNER: On page 28, yes; it says this is a 11 complex charge." We would suggest just deleting, "this is a 12 complex charge," and just have you say I will explain the law 13 of racketeering later. We don't think we need to characterize 14 any particular statutes as complex or not complex for the jury.

15 THE COURT: That's fine.

16 MR. GERMAN: I'm sorry. Can you just bring the 17 microphone closer? You are fading out.

18 MR. GERSHFELD: Judge, can I interrupt for a second?
19 I did miss a comment on 26.

20 THE COURT: Okay.

21 MR. GERSHFELD: Second paragraph, it states, "The 22 defendant begins trial with an absolutely clean slate and 23 without any evidence against him." It should probably state 24 "her," considering I only have the one female in the bunch.

25 MR. GERMAN: Him or.

DAi5zem1

Charge Conference

1           THE COURT: Him or her.

2           MR. GERSHFELD: Him or her, yes.

3           THE COURT: Thank you. All right.

4           MR. SKINNER: I think Mr. Garber has a comment on page 5 29?

6           MR. GARBER: On page 29, this is crimes defined by 7 criminal statutes only and it would be the fourth line down 8 from the beginning of that section starting with, "some vague 9 feeling." I would say some belief or vague feeling that 10 something wrong has been done is insufficient to convict anyone 11 of any charge whatsoever.

12          MR. SKINNER: Your Honor, I actually think a belief 13 and a vague feeling are two very different things and a belief 14 is a much stronger conviction that something wrong has been 15 done. I don't -- we would object to changing that.

16          MR. GARBER: I just think vague feeling is too, like, 17 watered down and too complicated for them to understand. You 18 are talking about nuance, really, which I like. I think a 19 nuance feeling but also you should say belief, too; belief or 20 vague feeling.

21          MR. CREIZMAN: If we put quotes around "something 22 wrong" and if we added "belief" it would seem to convey the 23 message of that you're trying to -- that Mr. Garber is trying 24 to address and it would also address the government's concern 25 about specific crimes.

DAi5zem1

Charge Conference

1                   THE COURT: But the quotes won't be -- when I read it 2 the quotes won't come out unless I do air quotes.

3                   MR. CREIZMAN: If your Honor could do that, that would 4 be great. You could say the so-called defendants.

5                   MR. FISCHETTI: Judge, I don't know if this solves the 6 problem for Glenn or the government but how about considering 7 just taking out the word, "some feeling?"

8                   THE COURT: How about some feeling?

9                   MR. SKINNER: Fine, your Honor.

10                  THE COURT: Some feeling.

11                  MR. FISCHETTI: I think that solves the problem, 12 Judge.

13                  THE COURT: It is a happy medium.

14                  MR. GARBER: Okay. Also on 29, the second paragraph 15 under the C Section, the crimes defined section: You have 16 heard testimony that New York State requires professional 17 corporations... And it goes on I think in addition, this is 18 talking about fraudulent corporation and the regulation. Now, 19 at the end of that paragraph I think this language should be in 20 there as well: You also heard testimony about runners and 21 kickbacks also referred to as referral fees. Should you find 22 that this conduct occurred, it does not, in and of itself, 23 constitute a violation of the criminal law.

24                  MR. SKINNER: We object to that.

25                  MR. GARBER: Because we are really talking about a

DAi5zem1

Charge Conference

1 series of violations here and there was a lot of testimony
2 about -- well, there is testimony about Stark laws, testimony 3 about kickbacks not in and of themselves being criminal in 4 nature, testimony about runners, and I even think Dillon -- I 5 am forgetting their witness, their witness from one of the 6 insurance companies -- acknowledged during his testimony that 7 the use of runners is not in and of itself even a violation of 8 civil law. So, I just think that this is an appropriate place 9 for that language. It mirrors the language you are using for 10 fraudulent incorporation and I just think it should be in 11 there.

12 MR. GERMAN: Judge, I think the Court can take 13 judicial notice of the anti-kickback scheme as it relates to 14 medical professionals, the Stark laws, it is a civil violation 15 of law, and so I know there has been some -- it has been 16 confusing because we have had some witnesses who have said I 17 don't believe it is criminal and then we had Mr. Debiasi in the 18 morning who said I didn't think so, but then in the afternoon 19 he said he did think so.

20 It clearly isn't. We all know what the Stark laws are 21 and that ambiguity to the jury should be cleaned up.

22 MR. SKINNER: Your Honor, we are going to be arguing 23 to this jury that kickbacks alone are sufficient to prove 24 criminal liability in this case because kickbacks are a 25 motivation for somebody to make a referral that is non-medical

DAi5zem1

Charge Conference

1 and is motivated by finances instead. So, I don't think that 2 there is any reason to be including any qualification on what a 3 kickback might show because certainly a kickback alone may be 4 sufficient proof for this jury to determine that there is a 5 violation of criminal law.

6 THE COURT: How could a kickback alone establish a 7 violation of, say, health care fraud?

8 MR. SKINNER: Fair enough. It would have to be 9 coupled with an actual bill to an insurance company but the 10 argument would be that evidence of kickbacks and evidence of 11 bills -- and there is no dispute there is plenty of evidence of 12 bills here -- but the evidence of kickbacks by themselves, of 13 course we are going to have other arguments about why fraud was 14 committed. But, we will be saying to the jury the kickbacks 15 themselves, whether or not they were included within the amount 16 billed to the insurance company, are evidence that the 17 individuals who are making the referrals were motivated by 18 something other than medical necessity, they were motivated to 19 make referrals to get to kickbacks. So, that's why the 20 kickbacks, by themselves, could be evidence of the intent to 21 commit fraud.

22 MR. CREIZMAN: I think the inference is fair except 23 for the point of themselves. I think that you're asking the 24 jury to draw an inference that kickbacks, you know, the reason 25 why this is -- that they're about medical necessity, I think

DAi5zem1

Charge Conference

1 certain treatments weren't medically necessary, you were doing 2 the treatment so you can basically churn fees and that and 3 kickbacks -- kickbacks -- was the motivation but in themselves 4 not proof of fraud. In themselves is not itself a crime. The 5 kickback itself is not a crime.

6 MR. GARBER: Two things: One is whether or not we 7 should put this language in which, by the way, sounds 8 consistent with what the government said at the tail end

10 MR. SKINNER: Well --

11 MR. GARBER: If I could speak? Okay; that the 12 kickbacks are evidence essentially when coupled with other 13 things that a fraud took place. I think that's what 14 Mr. Skinner is saying is the second part of his discussion 15 there. They should be precluded by saying kickbacks in and of 16 themselves establish a fraud or even imply that because that is 17 wrong. But, going back to my application to add this language.
18 I think it is very clear that when you're talking about civil 19 wrongs that there should be mention of kickbacks and runners 20 because that was front and center in this trial and it is 21 certainly on similar ground to this fraudulent incorporation 22 stuff and to not put it in there I think is inappropriate given 23 the full field of information and the significance of runners 24 and kickbacks.

25 MR. CREIZMAN: And that's important, too, because

DAi5zem1

Charge Conference

1 first of all I opened on the point.

2 MR. SKINNER: Can I interrupt? Because I think maybe 3 I can cut some of this short.

4 Upon further reflection, I had not been thinking of 5 kickbacks as a violation of the Stark laws but if you think of 6 fee splitting as a kickback, that would be a violation of the 7 Stark laws. So, I don't disagree with what Mr. Garber is 8 saying, that New York Law also prohibits fee splitting. There 9 is no language about kickbacks in the Stark laws so I think if 10 we couch this as: You have heard testimony that New York 11 requires professional corporations... I think right after that 12 sentence you can say: You have also heard testimony about fee 13 splitting which is also prohibited by New York State law. And 14 we would agree that both things, on their own, are civil 15 violations and not criminal violations.

16 MR. GERMAN: Stark laws are a federal violation, it is 17 not a state violation. And I believe the name of the statute 18 is actually the anti-kickback statute. I think it is commonly 19 referred to as the Stark laws.

20 MR. CREIZMAN: Not even talking about the Stark laws 21 the very act of kickbacks or referrals point is itself the 22 point.

23 MR. GARBER: I would agree with that. We should use 24 the language that the jury knows. Stark laws got thrown out 25 there but they were never explained. What was thrown out there

DAi5zem1

Charge Conference

1 repeatedly was the term kickback, the term runners, and also 2 fee splitting. So, I think that we could add fee splitting in 3 there too and I think the language should be you have heard 4 testimony about runners, fee splitting and kickbacks also known 5 as referrals, because I think it is fair to characterize 6 kickbacks in a defense way also in that discussion. If you 7 find that this conduct occurred, that conduct, in and of itself
8 which is the same language you are using for fraudulent 9 incorporation is not, I think you say a violation of the 10 criminal law. That is an accurate statement, it deals with the 11 language that the jury knows here, and that's how I think it 12 should be phrased in this section of the charge.

13 MR. SKINNER: I know the Board of Regents New York
14 prohibits fee splitting. What civil statute expressly 15 addresses referral fees or kickbacks? Because if there isn't 16 one, then there is no need to have it categorized here in a 17 discussion of what might be a civil violation.

18 MR. GARBER: Fee splitting and kickbacks are the same 19 thing. So, if Michelle Glick, for example, is giving them 20 money back out of reimbursements that you call kickbacks that 21 are cashed, okay, that's a fee splitting arrangement and it 22 compromises her integrity as a professional which is why the 23 mini-Stark laws, which is the New York version of the Stark 24 laws, address that.

25 MR. FISCHETTI: I'm lost, Judge. I'm sorry. I'm

DAi5zem1

Charge Conference

1 lost.

2 I mean, I don't know why we have to go into detail 3 about referral fees or kickbacks may possibly be a violation of 4 the Stark laws or something civil. I don't understand we have 5 to do that. I mean, I think in my summation to some extent 6 based upon the fact that referral fees or kickbacks as it is 7 called here, unless it shows that the insurance company had to 8 pay a greater fee are not in and of themselves criminal. And I 9 think that's an accurate statement of the law and I don't know 10 why we have to get into civil law, Stark laws, or anything like 11 that. I think that's a fair statement. The fact that you may 12 have heard -- and I'm not talking about how you write it and I
13 will leave that to people who are more intelligent than I am -- 14 but the fact that you have heard testimony about kickbacks or 15 referral fees or fee splitting, those things, or whatever you 16 want to call them, are not, in and of themselves, a violation 17 of criminal law. Of course Mr. Skinner can certainly argue 18 that you have to consider that they are an integral part of the 19 crime we are charging here because you have to do various 20 things, you get more business that way or something like that.
21 We're not barring him from doing that. But, in and of itself 22 if someone gets an MRI and it costs $1,000 and a clinic who 23 refers the MRI gets $200 back but the clinic itself is paid 24 $1,000 that, in and of itself, those facts, are not a violation 25 of the criminal law.

DAi5zem1

Charge Conference

1                   THE COURT: Are both kickbacks and use of runners
2 violations of civil law? Or is it just kickbacks?

3                   MR. GARBER: My understanding, okay, is that fee 4 splitting and kickbacks is a subset of fee splitting and 5 runners are -- well, putting runners aside I think kickbacks is 6 a subset of fee splitting and it is a violation of Board of 7 Regent regulations which is designed to maintain the integrity 8 of professionals because they don't want them fee splitting so 9 that a doctor is doing services -- compromising their medical 10 decision-making.

11                  THE COURT: What about something like you have also 12 heard testimony about runners and about kickbacks also known as 13 referral fees or fee splitting. If you find such activity 14 occurred, that conduct alone, by itself, is not a violation of 15 the criminal law. However, such activity may be evidence, 16 evidence that helps you to determine whether the defendants are 17 guilty of the crimes charged in the indictment.

18                  MR. SKINNER: We won't have a problem with an 19 instruction that had both sides that made clear that it was 20 evidence that could be considered. I think stepping back 21 really the problem that the government has with this kind of 22 instruction is in every crime and every trial there is going to 23 be things that standing by themselves are innocuous or are not 24 themselves violations of a criminal statute, but when you 25 couple otherwise innocent acts together with intent you have

DAi5zem1

Charge Conference

1 the crime. And we don't usually, in instructing a jury, give 2 them a laundry list of things that we may have heard about 3 that, by themselves, are not crimes. We just tell them what 4 the crime is and then we all make our arguments according to 5 the facts that came in.

6 So, we may pick three things now and by the end of the 7 weekend and when everybody has read the transcript we may come 8 back Monday morning with 10 more facts that these guys want to 9 now say, by themselves, that's not a crime.

10 What is the point of it?

11 MR. GARBER: Because these were things that were 12 thrown out there that are relevant to -- they're part of this 13 trial.

14 Can I ask the Court a question? If you do go our way 15 on this is that what you are contemplating, that added 16 language, you know, the can be considered in your consideration 17 essentially of whether or not a crime was committed, that 18 clause at the end? Because I want to confer with co-counsel on 19 this and we may decide to withdraw our application.

20 THE COURT: Yeah. I think if I put it in I would want 21 to put in something about like the latter part.

22 MR. GARBER: Can I talk?

23 (Counsel conferring)

24 MR. FISCHETTI: I think the instruction is fair, 25 Judge, but it would be fairer to the jury if you said taken

DAi5zem1

Charge Conference

1 together with other evidence may be a crime. We are not 2 arguing that the government can't argue that kickbacks, 3 together with A, B, C and D, can show criminal conduct. Our 4 argument is that if there is just a kickback with no other 5 evidence, that's not a federal crime and that is an accurate 6 statement of law.

7 THE COURT: Would the government be okay with 8 something like that?

9 MR. SKINNER: I think we can live with it. I stand by 10 my general observation/objection that we don't typically 11 delineate for a jury what facts, on their own, are not 12 criminal. But, you know, this is a case where there has been 13 testimony, at least with respect to the incorporation issue, 14 that things violate New York State law. I don't know if we 15 have had any testimony or evidence with respect to the other 16 issues like kickbacks and things like that.

17 THE COURT: It is one of these things where there was 18 a lot of testimony about runners and kickbacks and even kind of 19 hiding the use of runners and kickbacks in such a way that 20 might give rise to an inference that that, itself, was criminal 21 given the extent of the discussion of it during the course of 22 the trial. We can wait and see if the jury asks a question 23 about it but it does seem like -- it is the kind of thing that 24 someone might think is criminal just based on sitting through 25 the trial.

DAi5zem1

Charge Conference

1 MR. SKINNER: But I think if it is -- if the Court 2 makes clear that these things can be considered as evidence of 3 the crime even though the mere payment of a referral fee would 4 not be a crime, then I think we can live with that. I mean, 5 look. This is a key part of our case, is arguing that these 6 very things are evidence of the crime and the fact that they 7 were hidden and the fact that nobody wanted anybody to know 8 about it and the fact that they took steps to conceal the 9 payments to the runners and things like that, that's evidence 10 that what they were doing was criminal and we don't want the 11 jury to think, oh, just because it is not, the Judge told us 12 that's not itself evidence of a crime because I don't think 13 that's right. It is circumstantial evidence of what was 14 happening here and in any fraud case we are going to have to 15 rely upon circumstantial evidence to prove intent. So, I don't 16 want us to raise our burden of proof here in trying to address 17 the unique facts of this trial.

18 MR. FISCHETTI: I think the last thing you said, your 19 Honor, covers --

20 MR. GERMAN: I think so.

21 MR. FISCHETTI: -- both of our suggestions with 22 regard to that portion of the charge, quite frankly.

23 (Continued on next page)

Dailzem2

1                   MR. GARBER: Taken together with other evidence. It 2 was your language, but I believe that's --

3                   THE COURT: Yeah, we can do something like, "You've 4 also heard testimony about runners and kickbacks, also known as 5 referral fees or fee splitting. If you find that such activity 6 occurred, that conduct by itself is not a violation of the 7 criminal laws that defendants are charged with violating.
8 However, such activity, together with other evidence, may help 9 you determine whether or not the defendants are guilty of the 10 crimes charged in the indictment."

11                  MR. GERMAN: That's absolutely acceptable to the 12 defense.

13                  MR. FISCHETTI: That's fair to us, your Honor.

14                  MR. SKINNER: That's fine, your Honor.

15                  THE COURT: I thought you were going to hear them say 16 yes and you were going to say no.

17                  MR. SKINNER: Try to be reasonable where we can.

18                  THE COURT: Okay. Anything else on that section?

19                  MR. SKINNER: One kind of general comment, your Honor, 20 and I see it does come up here a few places throughout the 21 charge, and we might just need to do a search to find them all.
22 You referred to professional corporations controlled by 23 licensed physicians. There's also evidence about professional 24 corporations in this case that were controlled by medical 25 professionals who were not physicians -- chiropractors,

Dailzem2

1 physical therapists --

2 THE COURT: Right.

3 MR. SKINNER: -- so I think --

4 THE COURT: Licensed healthcare professionals.

5 MR. SKINNER: Yes, or in different places you called 6 them medical practitioners. Medical professional, whatever you 7 want to call them is fine by us, so long as it's broader than 8 just physicians.

9 THE COURT: Okay.

10 MR. GERMAN: How is licensed healthcare professionals?

12 MR. GERMAN: Okay.

13 THE COURT: Licensed healthcare professionals.

14 Okay. Section D, Healthcare Fraud. Page.

15 MR. CREIZMAN: Page 33, perhaps?

16 MR. GARBER: I have some issues on page 32.

18 MR. GARBER: Can I go?

19 THE COURT: Yes.

20 MR. GARBER: Okay. Page 32, where you start with, "It 21 is sufficient," this is the fourth paragraph down, "if the 22 prosecution proves." I dislike this language because it tends 23 to, I think, lower their burden. I mean, this whole section 24 kind of says like there's many ways that these defendants can 25 get convicted, but that's -- which I understand, okay, in

Dailzem2

1 principle, but to highlight it too much I think is problematic 2 because it tends to lower the burden of proof. So instead of 3 saying it is sufficient, I would just say the prosecution -- 4 you've already given, you know, the setup in the prior 5 paragraph, and I think it should just say, "The prosecution 6 must prove beyond a reasonable doubt," and that's how that 7 sentence should be worded. As opposed to saying it is 8 sufficient. Sounds like, you know, a breeze.

9 MR. SKINNER: Of course it is sufficient if we prove 10 beyond a reasonable doubt that one of them were made, but I 11 don't know if it changes the meaning of the sentence to say, 12 "If the prosecution proves beyond a reasonable doubt." Well, I 13 guess it would. I'm sorry. Mr. Garber, can you just explain 14 exactly what you want the change to be.

15 MR. GARBER: Take out the words "It is sufficient if" 16 and just start, "The prosecution must prove beyond a reasonable 17 doubt," so the change would be "It is sufficient if" out and 18 "proves" is changed to "must prove."

19 MR. SKINNER: Your Honor, we don't have an objection.

20 MR. GERMAN: That's pretty universally used, that 21 "must prove" language.

22 THE COURT: "The prosecution must prove." Okay.
23 That's fine.

24 MR. GARBER: Now does this provoke a Mallela 25 discussion right now, this section, or --

Dailzem2

1                   THE COURT: Oh, you wanted to talk about that?

2                   MR. GARBER: Or do -- because I think that's where 3 we're at right now.

4                   MR. CREIZMAN: Yes, I think page 33 is where it's at.

5                   MR. GARBER: Judge, we're in the lead-up to this and 6 then I think page 33 is where it gets hammered home, but --

7                   MR. CREIZMAN: Before we begin, if I may, your Honor, 8 I think I already said that reiterated our position for the 9 earlier -- for jury instructions that ownership of shares of a 10 corporation is ownership and that's -- but so I'm just 11 reiterating that again.

12                  THE COURT: Yes.

13                  MR. CREIZMAN: But that's all.

14                  THE COURT: Yes.

15                  MR. MYERS: Judge, can I just add, at the very bottom 16 of page 32, before we get to 33, the language of the last four 17 words there, "more serious and expensive," I ask that there be 18 some kind of language that infers that it has to be with 19 criminal intent or was purposeful.

20                  THE COURT: Wait. What was that again? Which 21 paragraph?

22                  MR. MYERS: The very last four words on the bottom of 23 page 32. "More serious and expensive" is a bit ambiguous. It 24 really has to be with purpose or intent that it was criminal, 25 not just accidental, negligent, things like that. I mean, a

Dailzem2

1 more expensive or more --

2 MR. GERMAN: Judge, just -- I mean, this whole section 3 at the bottom here, I mean, we have this kind of litany of, you 4 know, well, it could have been never provided, it could have 5 been more serious and expensive, which kind of puts the jury in 6 this weird place of having to determine what's more expensive, 7 what's less expensive, and then it gets to and/or unnecessary 8 and excessive because the patients did not medically need the 9 treatments. I mean, in the indictment, in the "to wit" 10 language, the government says, you know, fraudulent 11 incorporation with -- I believe it's with the intent to engage 12 in unnecessary and excessive treatments. I mean, I think we 13 can just kind of lump that all into one. If it's unnecessary, 14 unnecessary could have been that it wasn't performed, that it 15 wasn't necessary, medically necessary, and it could have been 16 excessive if they were just continuing to bill. So I just 17 think the unnecessary and excessive language really covers 18 everything else, and that really comes right out of the 19 indictment.

20 THE COURT: Well, actually, these three phrases I 21 think were in the indictment.

22 MR. SKINNER: I was going to say, there's a lot of 23 language in the indictment we'd be happy to include in the 24 charge.

25 THE COURT: Well, I mean, the other thing is, this is

Dailzem2

1 not the purpose prong. This is just the first element. And 2 it's characterizing the billing theory as opposed to the 3 ownership theory.

4 MR. GERMAN: No, no, I understand that, but I mean -- 5 I mean, more serious and expensive --

6 MR. GARBER: Well, there's another problem with that, 7 and I would move to strike that, by the way, that second 8 clause. There was I think some suggestion by the government 9 that they did -- they were trying to make money out of billing 10 for services that were unnecessary, but they didn't provide 11 proof, like here is a NF3 that shows what the correct one was 12 and this is the -- what the higher charge was, so this concept 13 of expensive was never borne out in their proof.

14 THE COURT: What about the upcoding to, you know, a 15 higher degree with correspondingly higher claim? Isn't that 16 more serious and expensive?

17 MR. SKINNER: That was our expert testimony.

18 MR. GARBER: I mean, it didn't come up in money 19 differences. I mean, they just said that they were upcoding.

20 MR. GERMAN: Judge, I mean, I think the issue is the 21 amount billed corresponds to the code. I think this really 22 gives an impression that somehow they coded a 99 -- I forgot 23 these codes already, it's only been a day -- 205 and that, you 24 know, the cap was $155.30 and they were billing at $325, and 25 so, I mean, there's consistency in the code used and the

Dailzem2

1 appropriate amount billed, and so this issue of expensive 2 really -- it's confusing to me.

3 MR. SKINNER: Well, your Honor, I mean, it's really 4 not that confusing because we've argued that initial treatments 5 were billed at 99205s, they should have been billed at 99203s, 6 and there's been testimony that the 99205 is more expensive 7 than a 99203, and that's also borne out by the records in, you 8 know -- that are in evidence that show the amounts billed for 9 the 99205 and the 99203. I -- I'm not entirely sure what the 10 objection is to the language. It's plain language and it 11 describes exactly what we're claiming is wrong.

12 MR. GARBER: Let me go a different way on this, 13 because I think Mr. Skinner's actually right, I think, on the 14 evidence that came out, by the way, okay? But so -- but I 15 don't understand intellectually why -- how excessive, okay -- 16 how more -- how more serious and expensive is different than 17 excessive.

18 MR. GERMAN: That's my point.

19 MR. GARBER: And if it is, you know, there's no 20 intellectual difference between those two concepts. By adding 21 a different category in there, you're essentially giving the 22 jury this kind of vague other ground to potentially convict the 23 defendants on and it becomes a, you know, a expansion of the 24 indictment, and also, it tampers I think with the reasonable 25 doubt, the burden of proof and reasonable doubt.

Dailzem2

1                   MR. GERMAN: Judge, I think that's my point. I think 2 excessive incorporates what the court is trying to convey in 3 subsection 2.

4                   THE COURT: I think they're different concepts, 5 though. Excessive is, I think, you did the treatment when they 6 didn't medically need it.

7                   MR. SKINNER: Exactly, your Honor.

8                   THE COURT: Where more serious and expensive than the 9 actual treatments they got is, you upcoded or you charged for 10 something more expensive than the thing actually provided.

11                  MR. GARBER: Why isn't that excessive, though, that 12 you're exceeding?

13                  THE COURT: In one you're exceeding the actual 14 treatment, and in the other you're exceeding the medical need.
15 You know what I mean?

16                  MR. SKINNER: In one the treatment wasn't necessary in 17 the first place and in one you charged -- you did treat but you 18 charged more than what's warranted.

19                  MR. GERMAN: Judge, how about something along the 20 lines of, "and second, the government alleges that the 21 defendants submitted or caused to be submitted fraudulent 22 insurance claims for medical treatments that were either not 23 provided or unnecessary or excessively billed."

24                  MR. SKINNER: Your Honor, the language is taken 25 directly out of the indictment. It's in paragraph 4 of the

Dailzem2

1 indictment. It's the allegations we've made. They're going to 2 have the -- I'm presuming that they're going to have the 3 indictment with them when we send it back. So I don't really 4 see any need to change this because it's exactly what they're 5 going to have in another document in any event.

6 MR. GARBER: Well, if we're right that excessiveness 7 incorporates this other concept, then that -- the indictment 8 doesn't control. What controls is fairness. And you can -- we 9 don't control the indictment. You can draft whatever 10 indictment you want. And there was a surplusage argument that 11 was made in the beginning here, before the trial started. If 12 the indictment is going to be given to the jury, there's 13 language about user friendly -- I think that that should be 14 taken out, by the way, but --

15 MR. SKINNER: Well, I guess we can -- your Honor, we 16 stand by the arguments that we've been trying to articulate -- 17 I think the court articulated them better than we have -- that 18 we view these as being two different types of 19 misrepresentation. Excessive is not the same as more 20 expensive.

21 THE COURT: Yeah, I think both because we're just 22 talking about what the government alleges here and that is what 23 they allege, but also because I do think there's a distinction 24 between the second and third categories, one is tied to medical 25 necessity, one is tied to actual versus billed treatments, I

Dailzem2

1 think, so I'm inclined to go with that.

2 MR. GARBER: Before we move off of page 32, though, 3 there was something above that that I failed to mention. The 4 end of the paragraph which is "It is sufficient" that has now 5 been changed, the last clause in that paragraph, "either of 6 which, if proven beyond a reasonable doubt, will satisfy the 7 first element of the healthcare fraud," I think that clause 8 should be stricken, because now that you've taken out "It is 9 sufficient," you're not highlighting -- you've already told 10 them that there's two ways they can do it. To then go back to 11 that at the end of this paragraph is a little out of context 12 and I think it should be stricken.

13 MR. SKINNER: I'm sorry. You want to strike what?

14 MR. GARBER: The end of this, this paragraph, the 15 fourth paragraph, it says, "either of which, if proven beyond a 16 reasonable doubt, will satisfy the first element." I think 17 that clause should be taken out.

18 MR. SKINNER: That's a correct statement of the law.
19 Why would we take that out?

20 MR. GARBER: Because I'm trying to -- I think the 21 court overhighlights, okay, these two options, and I think that 22 it shouldn't be in there. The court already says it once, that 23 there's alternative ways that the convictions can ensue, and I 24 just don't think that that language should be in there, 25 especially since we're changing that "It is sufficient." I

Dailzem2

1 just think it reads better and I think it shouldn't highlight 2 that.

3 MR. SKINNER: No, but if we take that clause out, it 4 suggests to the contrary, that we have to prove both kinds, 5 which we certainly don't have to do. There are two alternative 6 theories, and it should be clear to the jury that, "either of 7 which, if proven, will satisfy the first element."

8 MR. GERMAN: But on page 31, the judge says, "The 9 first option," and he spells it out. Then your Honor says, 10 "The second option." I mean, that's as clear as day that there 11 are two options.

12 THE COURT: I'm going to keep that part in. I think 13 it's fine because it's pretty clear there are alternative 14 theories.

15 MR. SKINNER: Your Honor, also, before we move on into 16 the ownership issue, if that's where we're going next, we had 17 proposed some language in our proposed charge on fraud that 18 we'd like to -- I didn't see, and I may have just missed it in 19 reading this kind of late last night, but we had -- at page 26 20 of our proposed charge, we had language to the effect of, "This 21 element does not require that any particular person actually 22 relied on or actually suffered damages as a consequence of any 23 fraudulent representation or concealment of facts, nor need you 24 find that any of the conspirators, including the defendant you 25 are considering, profited from the fraud." I think that's a

Dailzem2

1 correct statement of the facts and I think it may be important, 2 depending in particular upon some of the arguments the doctors 3 may make with respect to whether they made a lot of money off 4 of this fraud or not.

5 THE COURT: Yeah, I think that's correct.

6 MR. SKINNER: So the issue would be figuring out where 7 to insert that.

8 THE COURT: Is that part of the first element?

9 MR. SKINNER: Yes.

10 MR. GERMAN: Pete, I'm sorry, could you just read that 11 again.

12 MR. SKINNER: Sure. "This element does not 13 require --"

14 MR. GERMAN: Pete, you have to -- you're looking to 15 the right and the mic's not picking you up at all. That's why 16 we can't hear.

17 MR. GARBER: What paragraph?

18 MR. SKINNER: Just the top paragraph, the first and 19 second sentence.

20 MR. GARBER: Page 26.

21 THE COURT: The first two sentences of that?

22 MR. SKINNER: Yes, your Honor.

23 MR. GARBER: And you want to add something?

24 MR. SKINNER: Oh, no. I'm talking about page 26 of 25 our proposed charge.

Dailzem2

1 MR. GARBER: Oh.

2 MR. SKINNER: And I want to insert that language or 3 something to that effect.

4 MR. GERMAN: Page 26 in ours is Meaning of the 5 Indictment. That's why everybody's confused.

6 MR. GARBER: Okay. So you wanted to alter your 7 request to charge, right?

8 MR. SKINNER: No. I want to alter the court's 9 proposed charge to include language that we had in our 10 proposal.

11 THE COURT: Yeah, I think that's standard language and 12 I think we missed it. I'll read it to you. This is on the 13 first element. "This element does not require that any 14 particular person actually relied on or actually suffered 15 damages as a consequence of any fraudulent representation or 16 concealment of facts, nor need you find that any of the 17 conspirators, including the defendant you are considering, 18 profited from the fraud." We might have to tweak that because 19 we're not in the conspiracy part yet.

20 MR. SKINNER: Yes, your Honor, I agree, it definitely 21 needs to be tweaked, but I want the principle to be included.

22 THE COURT: "It is enough that a false statement or a 23 statement omitting material facts made what was said 24 deliberately misleading was made as part of a fraudulent scheme 25 in the expectation that it would be relied on." I think that

Dailzem2

1 goes on page 32, after the materiality paragraph, maybe?

2 MR. SKINNER: That would be fine, your Honor.

3 THE COURT: So after the third paragraph.

4 All right. Should we talk about ownership?

5 MR. CREIZMAN: Yes.

6 THE COURT: Who's going first?

7 MR. GARBER: I may be a little more esoteric so maybe 8 you can clean house and I'll go first then.

9 Okay. I just want to preserve -- I'm hoping I'm not 10 just preserving my record but I'm persuading you, okay, to stop 11 this divide of alternative theories that you've come up with in 12 your charge, and I've been -- I think I understand Mallela on a 13 deeper level than I did in the beginning of this trial and 14 throughout the course of this case, but I made some comments 15 yesterday and I want to make sure that they're understood. My 16 understanding of the genesis of Mallela is that there was 17 concern about no-fault mills or abuse, and the reason why they 18 created this statute, or these rules, okay, to stop 19 nonprofessionals from owning is because they wanted to stop 20 unnecessary medical services and they did not want the 21 insurance companies to be saddled with this problem. So it's 22 not in isolation, and it is a -- it was designed to stop that, 23 okay, and if it's not connected to unnecessary medical 24 services, it's just like a rule that's kind of floating out 25 there and a way for insurance companies to fail to pay

Dailzem2

1 healthcare providers even though they provided services, and 2 that's -- when I talked about an unlawful taking or unjust 3 enrichment, it's for the healthcare providers. They're 4 actually providing services, and excellent services in this 5 example, and then the insurance company is saying, you know 6 what, we gotcha, okay, because we don't think that this was 7 adequately owned by a licensed healthcare professional. Which, 8 by the way, is a complicated analysis, fact-based analysis.
9 And at its core it's somewhat rogue, at least to me, under 10 American jurisprudence, but it got to where it got I think 11 because of the legislature's concern about unnecessary 12 services, okay, and it's in there, okay? But what the Second 13 Circuit did -- and they were troubled by this, as I understand 14 it, reading their opinion, and in 2004 they certified this 15 question up to the New York State Court of Appeals. But what 16 they talk about -- and this is the Second Circuit -- is they 17 say that there are criminal penalties that exist in this area.
18 For example, if a medical license is obtained fraudulently, 19 okay, that can be prosecuted criminally. And then after 20 Mallela, after it goes up to the New York State Court of 21 Appeals in 2005, there was some legislative changes that are 22 made, and those legislative changes target decertifying 23 facilities, okay, that violate this fraudulent incorporation 24 rule. But that's it. They have the option to criminalize this 25 and they don't. They talk about decertification. And there's

Dailzem2

1 legislation post New York State Court of Appeals Mallela. And 2 that's as far as they go. For a criminal court to then take 3 this to the level that you're taking it at I think is not only 4 dangerous, okay, but I think it's just wrong, because without 5 it being tethered to these underlying principles that caused 6 the rule to be created, you're saying that if the insurance 7 companies are successful in lobbying for a rule that says that 8 they don't have to pay under certain circumstances and that 9 doctors knowingly violate that rule or anybody knowingly 10 violates that rule, that's criminal, okay, it's like akin to 11 saying -- and I hope that this makes sense, okay -- they have a 12 rule that says, an NF3 has to be prepared a certain way. It 13 has to be prepared in black ink, for example, okay, but if you 14 prepare it and they're prepared in blue ink, okay, aha, we 15 don't have to pay you because you violated that rule, okay?
16 And doctors knowingly violate that rule. I mean, it's kind of 17 a maybe overly simplistic, you know, example, but I'm saying, 18 without the underlying principles of that -- of that fraudulent 19 incorporation, that concept of ownership being put on there, 20 it's essentially just a technical rule, okay, and to 21 criminalize it, in isolation, which is what you're doing, 22 you're not saying this has to be tethered to unnecessary 23 medical services or some other, you know, manner of defrauding, 24 you know, the insurance companies, where they're actually 25 defrauded to the point where they're hurt, okay, you're not

Dailzem2

1 saying that, you're saying in isolation --

2 THE COURT: No, I understand, but the prosecution
3 isn't relying on a state statute. There's a federal, general 4 fraud statute -- several, right? -- and they refer to, you 5 know, myriad representations that may have to do with things, 6 property ownership under state law, immigration law, whatever 7 it is, and it comes within mail fraud, insofar as it meets the, 8 you know, prongs of mail fraud, and ownership and property 9 things are generally determined by state law. So it's not as 10 though you're taking the state law and making that the criminal 11 statute, it's just the representation has to do with ownership, 12 which is something that is governed by state law.

13 MR. GARBER: But -- no, I get that. But -- okay.
14 First of all, I guess I said two things. Criminalizing 15 Mallela, okay, I think is problematic, okay, as a policy, from 16 a policy perspective, but putting that aside, what it is at its 17 core is a rule, this ownership rule, okay, that has a -- that 18 has a purpose behind it, and the purpose behind it is to stop 19 unnecessary medical services, it may be excessive and all this 20 other stuff, okay? That's why it's there, okay? And to say to 21 a jury, okay, you can find these defendants guilty just on the 22 violation of that ownership statement alone, okay, I just don't 23 think it makes sense, okay, because it's just fundamentally 24 unfair. It's an arbitrary rule in isolation, okay? If it's 25 tethered to some other nefarious conduct, then it's not, and here you're untethering it. It's standing alone in isolation. And another way -- and I'm just trying -- I'm communicating this hopefully effectively in different ways. It's no different than a technical rule, like, for example, you check -- and I'll -- maybe I'll go the ink thing. You check employee when it should be independent contractor, okay, in the box. The insurance company doesn't have to pay in that situation. If there were a wholesale knowing violation of that box violate -- that, you know, they're still providing the services, and this is the type of thing that if an insurance company looked at it, would say, you know what, as long as that other doctor, okay, is not billing independently for it, no harm, no foul. And that's a problem. And, you know, so I just think that you're on very, very -- not only dangerous ground but incorrect ground that's fundamentally, you know, violative of our clients' right to a fair trial.

MR. GERMAN: Judge, and I'll just add that when the insurance executive was testifying, I asked him specifically, if all of the medical treatments were necessary but you found that there was a problem with ownership, would you have to pay? And he basically said, no, Mallela says we don't have to pay. So under this precedent, if there were somebody out there who provided medically necessary treatment 1,000 percent of the time, the precedent we're setting here is that he could be prosecuted criminally for a law, as Mr. Garber points out,

Dailzem2

1 which is tethered in unnecessary medical services, and I think 2 that's the real danger.

3 THE COURT: Okay. But you can only be prosecuted if 4 the elements of the fraud statute are met, that is, it's done 5 wilfully and it's part of a scheme or artifice involving a 6 misrepresentation, etc., with intent to defraud, and it seems 7 to me Mallela is kind of a side issue. I mean, it goes to the 8 materiality of the representation or the omission or whatever 9 it is, because it establishes, under state law, the requisite 10 point that insurance companies are in fact able to withhold 11 payment if it's not an actual owner of a PC, and that's what 12 makes it material, but it's not using Mallela as the basis for 13 criminal liability, ultimately.

14 MR. GARBER: But I -- it's a two-tiered argument. The 15 Mallela thing I think is the discussion, just to put into 16 context how unfair this is, okay? But we're talking about a 17 technical rule then, okay, and if it's not connected to some 18 sort of -- and you talk about scheme to defraud or some sort of 19 fraud. So like putting in, you know, that, you know, they were 20 an employee as opposed to an independent contractor, I mean, is 21 that a fraud?

22 THE COURT: Actually, in some contexts it can be.
23 I've seen federal fraud cases where someone, you know, lies on 24 some sort of federal benefits application about whether they 25 had outside employment and, you know, they said they were an

Dailzem2

1 independent contractor versus an employee, and that was a 2 requirement to get a federal benefit, and if you meet the other 3 elements, that lie on a form to the federal government can be 4 mail fraud because it meets the other elements of intent to 5 defraud.

6 MR. GARBER: But my understanding is there's a purpose 7 behind that, the independent, but the employment is some sort 8 of a factor that they look at to determine whether or not, you 9 know -- you're talking about immigration, I think, right? You 10 know, that they should be able to get a visa or whatever, okay?
11 Here we're talking about -- and we never fleshed out at this 12 trial, and I think we were stopped from doing it, you know, 13 whether or not an insurance company would pay if, you know, 14 there was a technical violation in these forms. And we never 15 were really able to get into that. And, you know, I don't see 16 how the ownership issue, without connection to some sort of 17 underlying fraud, they're trying to steal -- pointing to the 18 guy from Allstate -- trying to steal money from insurance 19 companies, okay, you know, without that, okay, I don't 20 understand how, you know, it could be left in isolation. I 21 understand, okay, that, you know, a scheme to defraud, you 22 know, you could -- you could defraud in many ways, okay, but 23 you're still -- when you strip this all out, okay, without some 24 sort of, you know, medically unnecessary or excessive or 25 upcoding problem, okay, it's just a technical rule, and I just

Dailzem2

1 think that that's very problematic, okay, as far as, you know, 2 criminalizing it here in this trial. Putting aside New York 3 law.

4 THE COURT: Okay. Do you want to respond?

5 MR. SKINNER: Your Honor, we have no response. This 6 is an issue that's been ruled on by the court multiple times 7 already. We understand the defendants don't like it, but it's 8 been resolved. And the only issue now is how the jury is 9 instructed on it, and it's late in the day, and I suggest we 10 move on to that.

11 MR. FISCHETTI: Well, before we move on, Judge, here's 12 my position with this, without going into all the legalese with 13 regard to it. It's a very difficult issue for us because 14 Mallela deals with civil penalties. Taking the example that 15 there is an absolute fraud on the PC, on the NF3, where the 16 doctor actually doesn't sign, you sign for the doctor, open up 17 a PC, I'll sign for you, Dr. So-and-So. So there is -- there's 18 no question that that was done improperly and there's a fraud.
19 All the medical treatment is done properly. There's no 20 excessive billing, there's nothing. An insurance company 21 doesn't pay because they find out that this has been done 22 wrongly, incorrectly, fraudulently, anything you call it, but 23 no one has been defrauded on it other than civilly. There was 24 no excessive billing, there was nothing else, just take that in 25 a vacuum. Now I'm not going to reargue all this, Judge,

Dailzem2

1 because we've gone through it a hundred times. I do have an 2 objection to some of the language here. But I think since we 3 have to live with this, Judge, and it is a problem for us, that 4 at the end of this there should be some language about specific 5 intent to defraud or what -- defraud insurance companies. We 6 have to have something in there that basically prohibits the 7 jury from finding that perhaps the doctor just signed the 8 agreement and just left and everything else was done properly, 9 especially since my client and Mr. Danilovich do the business
10 end of it. There's no question that the insurance company 11 doesn't pay, and if the insurance company does pay because of 12 that technical violation, in my opinion, that's not criminal 13 fraud, that's civil fraud.

14 THE COURT: That's a fair point, and I think we 15 addressed that. I do have specific intent to defraud on 35, I 16 think. I say, you know, they must act knowingly and wilfully.

17 MR. FISCHETTI: Well, the ownership you don't, your 18 Honor. There could be a line just at the end of that with 19 regard to ownership.

20 MR. SKINNER: Well, your Honor, if you want to do 21 misrepresentations in billings before misrepresentation in 22 ownership, then the specific intent language will follow 23 directly after the misrepresentation in ownership. The 24 specific intent language is there and there's no dispute that 25 there's a difference between a misrepresentation and one that's

Dailzem2

1 made with the intent to defraud, and that is why these 2 misrepresentations are not floating in the ether. That is why 3 this is not a strict liability case.

4 THE COURT: Would that help to put misrepresentations 5 in billing first?

6 MR. SKINNER: We would have no objection to that, but 7 I don't think there's any reason to add anything.

8 MR. FISCHETTI: That would help.

9 MR. SKINNER: It follows immediately after --

10 MR. FISCHETTI: Mr. Skinner, that will help.

11 THE COURT: So we'll make that A and ownership B? I 12 think that works. And then I do say, to act with intent to 13 defraud means to act wilfully and with the specific intent to 14 deceive for the purpose of causing some financial loss to 15 another.

16 MR. FISCHETTI: Judge, I have, if I may, a pretty 17 serious objection to some of the language on page 34, if 18 we're --

19 MR. CREIZMAN: I have some objection, though, on 33, 20 if I could.

21 MR. FISCHETTI: Go ahead.

22 MR. CREIZMAN: Yes. It's to the last paragraph.
23 There's language in the last paragraph on page 33 which I think 24 endorses the government's theory of ownership, of paper 25 ownership, and it diminishes the significance of legal indicia

Dailzem2

1 of ownership vis-à-vis domination and control and profit, which 2 is the second and third factors the court has set forth for the 3 jury, and specifically the language is "formal designations" 4 and then the last two sentences of the paragraph. I would 5 propose a new paragraph, replacement paragraph as follows, 6 which is: "First, consider who owns the shares of an entity.
7 Also consider who has other legal rights in an entity, such as 8 the right to bind the entity to contracts, sell the entity, or 9 to dissolve the entity. These considerations are probative but 10 not necessarily conclusive of true ownership."

11 THE COURT: Could you repeat that first sentence. I 12 want to make sure --

13 MR. CREIZMAN: Sure. "First, consider who owns the 14 shares of an entity. Also, consider who has other legal rights 15 in an entity, such as the right to bind the entity to 16 contracts, sell the entity, or to dissolve the entity. These 17 considerations are probative but not necessarily conclusive of 18 true ownership." I have it written out if you want to see it.

19 THE COURT: Okay.

20 MR. SKINNER: Your Honor, our problem with that would 21 be, he's basically taking one concept, who has legal ownership, 22 and trying to split it into two different things, I mean, who 23 owns the shares and who has other legal rights, and there's -- 24 it's all one thing -- who has the legal ownership of the 25 company. That's a factor that the jury can consider. That

Dailzem2

1 factor is not conclusive, not decisive in this case. We think 2 it's properly described by the court in what you have here. I 3 mean, we certainly can't cut the quotations you have from the 4 applicable cases. I mean, I think it's -- it is the law, and 5 the jury should be instructed on it.

6 THE COURT: You would cut the quotations?

7 MR. SKINNER: No. We think the quotations should 8 remain.

9 THE COURT: Oh, I was going to cut them.

10 MR. CREIZMAN: I would just say about quotations, 11 there's also -- the Supreme Court stated in Dole Foods, "In 12 issues of corporate law, structure often matters," so that's 13 why I believe that the language from whatever case this is 14 from, I think it endorses one theory over another theory. It 15 diminishes the significance of legal ownership.

16 MR. SKINNER: And we think it properly puts in context 17 legal ownership. I mean, it's -- as most charges try to do, 18 it's presenting both sides of how this factor should apply.

19 MR. GERMAN: I mean, Judge, we're looking at the case 20 where that comes from, and, you know, that's a Second Circuit 21 civil law case, and to the extent we're going to use that kind 22 of language, you know, I think it's fair to use the kind of 23 language in Dole, but I think rather than have these kind of 24 different civil languages, one from the Court of Appeals and 25 one from the US Supreme Court, that Mr. Creizman's suggested

Dailzem2

1 charge makes sense.

2 MR. SKINNER: Your Honor, Dole was a completely
3 different case, completely different regulatory backdrop. It 4 doesn't have any applicability here, as we've argued numerous 5 times already in our briefs to the court.

6 THE COURT: Yeah, I mean, the question of ownership I 7 think is a question of New York civil law, ultimately --

8 MR. SKINNER: Yeah.

9 THE COURT: -- property law. I mean, I think some 10 version of what you said, I agree that it shouldn't be broken 11 out into two things but something about formal legal 12 designations of ownership, you know, first you should consider 13 formal legal designation -- well, how did you put it again?

14 MR. CREIZMAN: I said, "First, consider who owns the 15 shares of an entity. Also, consider who has other legal rights 16 in an entity, such as the right to bind the entity to 17 contracts, sell the entity, or to dissolve the entity. These 18 considerations are probative but not necessarily conclusive of 19 true ownership." And also, deleting the quotes obviates the 20 air quotes problem.

21 THE COURT: You would delete the air quotes.

22 MR. CREIZMAN: Yes, I would delete, in this -- on this 23 page, yes.

24 MR. SKINNER: Your Honor, we wouldn't have a problem
25 with deleting the quotation marks themselves. I thought you

Dailzem2

1 meant delete the language. What Mr. Creizman wants to do I 2 think is akin to what we want to do when talking about the 3 second and third factors, which is adding examples of what the 4 court means. I mean, you're laying out the legal concept in 5 isolation, which is one way to do this, and we, you know, we 6 had suggested examples, for example, with control, you know, 7 listing examples, it's like hiring and firing, choosing a 8 location, renting the equipment, and the court elected not to 9 include those, which is fine, but I think the approach should 10 be the same for all the factors. We should either have the 11 concept followed by examples or we should just have the concept 12 and leave it for argument and for the jury to figure out what 13 fits within those categories. So again, we would, you know -- 14 we would object to the change proposed by Mr. Creizman. If 15 it's adopted, then we think we should spend some time 16 fashioning examples to include in the second and third factors 17 as well.

18 MR. CREIZMAN: Your Honor, just to make clear about 19 the quotations, I think that the quotations from -- that are 20 here with the ellipses adds to the, you know -- basically just 21 undermines this theory, the idea of legal ownership, and in 22 favor of this paper ownership theory. It waters it down, as 23 they say.

24 THE COURT: Yeah, I'm inclined to take out the quotes
25 and ellipses. I think since legal rights is a little bit more

Dailzem2

1 difficult to understand, we do have one example, such as 2 possession of shares, and I think it's fair to put in the other 3 example you give, which is rights to enter into contracts or 4 sell, buy or sell, something like as you do it.

5 Anything else on that one?

6 MR. SKINNER: Can we get that again, Mr. Creizman?

7 MR. CREIZMAN: I'm going to go slow. "First, consider 8 who owns the shares of an entity."

9 MR. SKINNER: Can we go back to just sticking with as 10 the court has it, "formal designations of ownership such as the 11 possession of shares and --"

12 THE COURT: Here's what I'm thinking. "First, you 13 should consider formal legal designations of ownership, such as 14 who owns the shares of an entity and who has the rights to buy, 15 sell, contract for, or dissolve the entity."

16 MR. CREIZMAN: The only issue I have with -- is 17 "formal designation." The very term "formal" actually 18 undermines the -- and waters down the importance of actually 19 having legal ownership and the right to bind the corporation, 20 saying formal, but, you know, just if we take out the words 21 "formal designations."

22 MR. GARBER: I agree with that because it almost 23 sounds like paper.

24 MR. SKINNER: Well, that's the whole point, your 25 Honor.

Dailzem2

1 MR. CREIZMAN: That's right.

2 MR. GARBER: It's buying into the government's theory 3 too much.

4 THE COURT: But I almost think we need something like 5 formal, because in another sense, we're defining legal 6 ownership, you know, in the sense, in the legal sense that the 7 jury has to resolve.

8 MR. GARBER: How about designations, consider 9 designations? Mr. Creizman may not like that, but take out the 10 word "formal." Designations, which is still --

11 THE COURT: I don't think that's descriptive enough, 12 though. I mean, I think we are talking about formal legal 13 designations. I don't think that --

14 MR. SKINNER: And then we're talking about other 15 designations, and that's the second and third factors.

16 THE COURT: Yeah. I'm inclined to keep it that way.

17 Anything else?

18 MR. GERSHFELD: Judge, I do have one proposal, and I 19 might be a little different than most of the doctors here. The 20 government made a point to produce my EUO of my client and 21 basically alluded to the fact that she never goes to the 22 facility with the witnesses that testified against what the EUO
23 was there for, for that purpose. The testimony by the experts 24 pretty much concluded that the doctor does not physically have 25 to be in the facility to be the owner of the PC, and I'd like

Dailzem2

1 to highlight that somewhere in the ownership charge, because 2 unlike the other doctors, I don't know what the standard for 3 them is, but to own an MRI facility, the doctor themselves does 4 not physically have to be there in order to be the owner of 5 that facility. So I proposed language for the charge, and I'd 6 like to read it to you and see what the comments would be on 7 it.

8 MR. SKINNER: Well, your Honor, before we do that, I 9 mean, our objection would be that that's not a legal charge.
10 That's a -- that's an argument to be made to the jury about how 11 to apply the legal charge. So I don't -- we would object to 12 adding anything into the charge with respect to whether an 13 owner has to be at the clinic or not. And I also don't think 14 that the evidence has been conclusive on that fact.

15 MR. GERSHFELD: Well, Judge --

16 MR. SKINNER: It's a factual argument.

17 MR. GERSHFELD: What was that?

18 THE COURT: He said it's a factual argument. But if 19 you want to say what you propose at least for the record.

20 MR. GERSHFELD: Sure. Well, first I'd like to say 21 that Dr. Zarick was on the stand and he basically said the only 22 time that a clinician has to be at an MRI facility is if, one, 23 it's a Medicare facility, or two, if there was an MRI taken 24 with contrast. In any event, none of those two issues are the 25 subject of this case, and therefore the law is pretty clear

Dailzem2

1 that she doesn't have to be in the facility to be designated as 2 the owner, so my instruction, if your Honor would listen, would 3 be, "I instruct you as a matter of law that all medical service 4 corporations in New York State must be owned, operated, and 5 controlled by a licensed medical practitioner. In addition, 6 for a medical service corporation in New York State to be 7 eligible for reimbursement under the state's no-fault -- 8 no-fault auto accident insurance program, the medical 9 professional corporation, or PC, must be owned, operated, and 10 controlled by a licensed medical practitioner. However, a 11 licensed medical practitioner may own, operate, and control a 12 medical service corporation without being physically present 13 there."

14 MR. GERMAN: Judge, I just want to clarify, one, what 15 Dr. Zarick actually said was that a medical doctor does not 16 have to be on the premises at all, even when they're using 17 contrast, unless the contrast procedure is for Medicare.
18 That's actually what he said.

19 THE COURT: I mean, I think that's a fair point for 20 argument, but I just don't know that that goes to the ownership 21 instruction. I mean, I think you can argue it, certainly.

22 MR. GERSHFELD: Well, Judge, I think the government 23 has confused the jury by putting that EUO in, which is the 24 subject of another charge I'm going to request after. They 25 basically made it seem that my client -- well, they read the

Dailzem2

1 EUO into the record and basically made it seem that my client 2 was there two to three times almost every day or two or three 3 times -- two or three hours every day, whatever the EUO 4 actually stated, and then they put on three witnesses to 5 rebuttal that testimony, which made it seem as if she was never 6 there, and because she was never there, therefore she doesn't 7 own or operate or control the facility. But the law doesn't 8 require her to be there. So I'd like to make that clear 9 because the inference now is because she's not there, she's not 10 in control of the PC, but that's not true.

Charge Conference

1                   MR. SKINNER: First of all, I don't know why we are 2 talking about what the law requires. Dr. Zarick a doctor, he 3 wasn't an expert on any legal issues. He wasn't asked to offer
4 any opinions on what the law requires. The physician's 5 presence at the clinic, I think, is a fact that is relevant to 6 considering the dominion and control that they exercised over 7 the facility. They were there all the time that would suggest 8 they had more control. If they were never there that would 9 suggest they might have had less control. These are facts that 10 can be argued to the jury as relevant to dominion and control 11 but there is no reason to include it in a legal charge and I 12 will leave it.

13                  MR. GERSHFELD: Judge, I believe the government argued 14 that if she is not there they may argue that with other factors 15 but that factor alone, whether she is there or not does not 16 necessarily mean, in and of itself -- does not mean that she 17 doesn't own, operate or control the PC, that factor with 18 others. I don't want the jury to get confused by the fact that 19 just because she wasn't there doesn't mean she doesn't own or 20 control or operate her PC and that's what I'm afraid the jury 21 may have inferred from what the government did on their direct 22 case.

23                  THE COURT: Yes. I mean, I just don't think it is the 24 place -- he wasn't testifying -- I don't even know what the law 25 is. He might have testified to his understanding as a doctor

DAi5zem3

Charge Conference

1 or something but I don't think it goes here and it is not fair
2 for argument so I am not inclined to add that to this 3 instruction.

4 MR. FISCHETTI: Judge, can I go back to 34, ownership?

5 There are several words in there that I don't believe 6 belong there, especially with the defense that we are offering.
7 It says the second set of factors you can consider to determine 8 ownership is responsibility for the financial risk and 9 benefiting from the financial gains of an enterprise.

10 First of all, I object to the word enterprise and say 11 that your Honor say "entity" rather than "enterprise" since we 12 have an enterprise corruption charge. But I think it should 13 read: The second set of factors you can consider to determine 14 ownership is the responsibility for the financial risk of an 15 entity you may consider who receives the greatest financial 16 profit when the entity does well and who loses the most 17 financial investment if it fails. That's fair. But to say 18 benefiting for financial gains when it is entirely proper for a 19 doctor and a PC to hire management companies to manage their 20 PC, those words "benefiting from the financial gain," I think, 21 can be used by the jury to infer that doctors can't pay anybody 22 with regard to managing their clinic. I don't think it takes 23 anything away from what your Honor says because by taking it 24 out it says is responsible for the financial risk. You agree 25 with that, right? And you may consider who receives the

DAi5zem3

Charge Conference

1 greatest financial profit -- not benefit, profit -- when the 2 entity does well, and who loses the most financial investment
3 if the entity fails. I think that's fair, Judge, and I think 4 he should remove the words benefiting from the financial gains.

5 MR. MYERS: Judge, I'm going to ask that you add a 6 little qualifier in there: But you may also consider that the 7 owner does not have to be the sole beneficiary or person who 8 profits. I think that's the point. There are many people who 9 can profit. The owner himself doesn't have to be the sole 10 person.

11 MR. SKINNER: Well, no. I mean, to the contrary. You 12 can't. I mean you are not supposed to be sharing the profits 13 of a corporation with a non-medical professional. There has 14 been testimony from the insurance company executive that that 15 matters and it is material to them who is receiving the 16 profits. So, we would certainly object to Mr. Myers' proposed 17 change. We just think it is not correct.

18 THE COURT: So, Mr. Fischetti's point was to take out:
19 And benefiting of an entity, but then keep in that next 20 sentence?

21 MR. FISCHETTI: I just want to say benefiting from the 22 financial gains. And I think to make it even more sensible we 23 can say benefiting from the financial gains of a professional 24 corporation because that's what we are really talking about 25 here. And you may consider who receives the greatest financial

DAi5zem3

Charge Conference

1 profit when a financial corporation does well and who loses the 2 most financial investment if the professional corporation
3 prevails. I just don't want to be stuck with the jury 4 considering that the professional corporation from the gains 5 that it's making, the benefits that it is making, is using that 6 money for management services. I think that's fair, Judge.

7 MR. GARBER: I think the whole paragraph is 8 problematic because --

9 MR. FISCHETTI: Can we just talk to mine first?

10 MR. GARBER: You're done?

11 THE COURT: Before we get to yours, Mr. Garber, are 12 you guys okay with --

13 MR. SKINNER: If I understood, and I'm sorry if I lost 14 track, but it seemed at the end of the day the proposal was to 15 change "enterprise" to "professional corporation" which we 16 wouldn't have any objection to.

17 THE COURT: I kind of liked keeping it "entity"
18 because I enjoyed --

19 MR. SKINNER: "Entity" is fine too.

20 THE COURT: He wanted it to be "entity" but then for 21 the last part he prefers "professional corporation."

22 MR. FISCHETTI: I have no objection to "entity."

23 MR. SKINNER: "Entity" is fine with us.

24 THE COURT: And the main was and taking out "financial 25 gains" but then keeping the next sentence: You may consider

DAi5zem3

Charge Conference

1 who receives the greatest financial profit, etc.

2 MR. SKINNER: I thought Mr. Fischetti said he didn't 3 mind about that one.

4 THE COURT: No, no. He is okay with the second 5 sentence, just take out "and benefiting from the financial 6 gains" which I think is okay because it is covered in the next 7 part.

8 MR. SKINNER: We don't disagree, your Honor. I think 9 it is basically the exact same thing, who gets the greatest 10 financial profits.

11 THE COURT: Mr. Garber, did you want to address yours?

12 MR. GARBER: The problem I have with it, in general, 13 is that this is the belief that the doctors, at least from the 14 doctor's standpoint, had when they incorporate and you are 15 talking about a continuum here and I'm not sure exactly how the 16 language getting changed but responsible for the financial risk 17 and benefiting from the financial gains and then talking about 18 when the entity does well and who loses the most if the entity 19 fails, I just think that opens up this thought process for the 20 jury that this is over a period of time and it is really what 21 the doctors believed when they incorporated. I think it should 22 be simplified and it should say something along the lines of 23 the: The second set of factors you can consider is who 24 receives the greatest financial profit and just leave it that 25 simple. That's the language I think that comes out of -- it is

DAi5zem3

Charge Conference

1 not Mallel, I think it is Caruthers which is one of the cases
2 we argued pretrial and I think you are expanding this concept 3 beyond that and also opening up this continuum thing which then 4 takes it away from the thought process when they incorporated 5 at the inception which is what this is all about.

6 MR. SKINNER: We would disagree with that. What this 7 is all about is misrepresentations over time to insurance 8 companies about who the owner of the company is. So, I mean, 9 this is not a fraud that's committed when the articles of 10 incorporation are filed. That's not the misrepresentation 11 really that is at issue here. It is when, in Section 17 of the 12 NF-3, the doctors repeatedly represent themselves to the 13 insurance companies to be the owners. So, it is a fraud that 14 occurs over time.

15 And then also it shouldn't be limited just to profit 16 because who bears the risk? Who put the money in as well as 17 who gets the profits? And that is from -- we took it when and 18 I think we were more detailed about what we thought should be 19 in there from Caruthers.

20 MR. GARBER: The other point is "entity," we believe, 21 should be changed to PC.

22 MR. GERMAN: Yes.

23 MR. FISCHETTI: That's what we suggested too, Judge.
24 I know your Honor doesn't want it the other way.

25 THE COURT: I don't feel strongly.

DAi5zem3

Charge Conference

1           Does the government have any issue with that?

2           MR. MYERS: We don't mean globally over the whole 3 course.

4           THE COURT: Just for the second set of factors.

5           MR. GARBER: "Enterprise" which has now been changed 6 to "entity" should now be changed to "PC" in the second set of 7 factors.

8           THE COURT: But not the first?

9           MR. GARBER: I think it should -- actually, I was 10 going to go back to that. I think it should be throughout this 11 entire page 33 and 34 it should be PC throughout.

12           THE COURT: These have general instructions on 13 ownership.

14           MR. SKINNER: This is not who owns the shares. The 15 point is that it is broader than who owns the shares. We are 16 not talking about just the professional corporation and just 17 the legal indicia of ownership, we are talking about the entity 18 and who actually owns it.

19           MR. GARBER: Well, what is the entity? From the 20 doctor's perspective it is their individual practices. They 21 don't own the facilities, they're not claiming to own the 22 facilities.

23           MR. MYERS: All the individual PCs.

24           MR. GARBER: The theory is that they may need their 25 license to be able to run a medical practice out of a facility

DAi5zem3

Charge Conference

1 but they're essentially owning the doctors' PCs.

2 MR. MYERS: And they're not responsible for the entire 3 clinic at Atlantic Avenue, for instance.

4 THE COURT: We do go back to PCs after the third 5 factor.

6 MR. GARBER: I did misspeak, actually. It is not page 7 33, PC starts on page 34 at the top and then continues through 8 the third set of factors and there is only actually three 9 changes then. "Enterprise" becomes "PC," "entity" becomes "PC" 10 in the third set twice.

11 THE COURT: In the paragraph after the third set, 12 right?

13 MR. GARBER: It is already in there, isn't it?

14 THE COURT: The way I have it it is just entity and 15 then in the paragraph after the three factors, based on a 16 thorough consideration of these three types of factors, then we 17 say "PC."

18 MR. GARBER: That's right, but I'm saying above that I 19 have had.

20 THE COURT: You are saying to make it all PC whenever 21 we say entity.

22 MR. GARBER: Top of page 34.

23 THE COURT: Well, and if we are going to do that we 24 should do it on 33 as well, I assume.

25 MR. GARBER: Yes, yes. That's right. That's right.

DAi5zem3

Charge Conference

1 I don't know that there is that many of them there but that's 2 correct.

3 THE COURT: Is it okay with the government to just 4 change entity to PC?

5 MR. SKINNER: Your Honor, we view NV being another 6 descriptor of PC in the first paragraph in the 7 misrepresentation about ownership section anyway so, no, we 8 don't object to changing it. It is fine.

9 THE COURT: Okay.

10 MR. FISCHETTI: And "beneficial gains" is out, Judge?

11 THE COURT: Yes.

12 MR. FISCHETTI: That's what I asked for. Thank you.

13 THE COURT: Let me just make sure I caught these.

14 MR. GARBER: I think we are almost done with 15 ownership, okay?

16 MR. SKINNER: We have one suggestion in the third 17 factor but if you have something different before that?

18 MR. GARBER: I have just a couple minor things that go 19 back in time on this misrepresentation and ownership. I don't 20 know if you want to cover your part first.

21 MR. SKINNER: Why don't we --

22 MR. GARBER: Finish it and I will clean up a little, 23 if I could.

24 MR. SKINNER: Okay.

25 Your Honor, our suggestion with respect to the third

DAi5zem3

Charge Conference

1 factors would be to add to the second sentence. We think that 2 dominion and control is a little bit too narrow because it 3 seems to focus primarily on create, sell, destroy and direct 4 the assets of the entity seems to be focusing on the shares or 5 the physical assets of the entity. We would like to add 6 something to the effect of: As well as who has the power to 7 direct how the professional corporation is operated, because we 8 think there is a lot of indicia of ownership that go into you 9 can hire and fire, who is determining the rental agreements, 10 who is determining the schedules and things like that. So, we 11 would like some language that makes clear that those are things 12 the jury can consider.

13 MR. GERMAN: Judge, that's a factual argument.

14 Absolutely. They're free to make those arguments. We are free 15 to make other arguments that aren't necessarily in the charge.

16 MR. GARBER: What I was going to suggest which might 17 cover this is it sounds as if these three sets of factors are 18 exclusive and it would seem to me that they should be it 19 that -- there should be some language in there that there may 20 be others, these are not all inclusive.

21 THE COURT: Is that okay with the government?

22 MR. SKINNER: We don't have a problem with making 23 clear that these are a non-exhaustive list of factors.

24 THE COURT: Among the factors you should consider.

25 MR. SKINNER: That's fine. But we do think that in

DAi5zem3

Charge Conference

1 discussion and explaining what dominion and control it should 2 be clear that we are not just talking about the assets of the 3 professional corporation, it is, you know --

4 THE COURT: That's tricky, though. I was actually 5 trying to avoid "operate" because just in reading all these New 6 York cases we sort of distilled it down to these three factors
7 and I don't know, the power to operate gets you into the gray 8 area.

9 MR. SKINNER: We had testimony from the insurance 10 company witness that what matters to the insurance company is 11 not -- they look to see and if are you trying to figure out who 12 the true owner of the place is you, look to see who can direct 13 what happens there and that would include things like hiring 14 and firing, staffing and things like that.

15 THE COURT: But that sounds like management --

16 MR. SKINNER: Well, I mean, I think --

17 THE COURT: -- as a legal matter.

18 MR. SKINNER: I think that an argument can be made 19 that a manager can be hired but if the owner of the -- if the 20 person who is purporting to be the owner of the company doesn't 21 have any of those powers, then that's important and there has 22 been evidence here, for example, with regard to Dr. Geris, that 23 he wanted to make hiring decisions, like hiring his wife; and 24 he wasn't able to do it.

25 THE COURT: None of these examples you are giving have

DAi5zem3

Charge Conference

1 nothing to do with what the legal ownership definition should 2 be under New York Law.

3 MR. SKINNER: No, but it goes to what dominion and 4 control means within the definition of ownership. We shouldn't 5 be excluded from arguing these things and perhaps Mr. Garber is 6 right that it is included within a catch-all.

7 THE COURT: I will think about that and you are not 8 precluded from arguing because I am saying it is ultimately a 9 question for the jury and I will think about that but I'm not 10 going to promise it.

11 MR. FISCHETTI: Judge, as you think about it, I think 12 you said the key words talking about that, that that is a 13 management company, Judge, and it is an issue for the jury. He 14 can argue whatever he wants but if we have a valid management 15 agreement that we consider valid that allows my client to hire, 16 to fire, if your Honor uses that language you are just about 17 directing a verdict.

18 MR. SKINNER: Oh. We are not suggesting that the 19 Court should include hire or fire in there. To the contrary, 20 we are saying that who has -- and it doesn't have to be the 21 power to operate but some indication that who exercises control 22 over the day-to-day operations is relevant to dominion and 23 control over the entity or professional corporation, however we 24 are going to describe it.

25 MR. FISCHETTI: I don't agree, but I can't object to

DAi5zem3

Charge Conference

1 that. What I do object to is if your Honor gives examples such 2 as hiring and firing. That I object to.

3 MR. SKINNER: And we are not asking for that, your 4 Honor.

5 THE COURT: Okay.

6 MR. GERMAN: Well, I think it is fine just the way it 7 is.

8 THE COURT: What is that?

9 MR. GERMAN: I said I think it is perfect just the way 10 it is.

11 THE COURT: Well, thank you.

12 MR. GARBER: Just for the record, while you are 13 thinking about it, we would object to any sort of references to 14 operation because we do think it takes out this whole notion.
15 Management is okay and once you start going down the operation 16 road you start to undo --

17 THE COURT: I think I agree with that. I am going to 18 take one more look at it but I think I agree with that. It is 19 certainly something that you can argue.

20 MR. GARBER: Just a couple other minor things on this, 21 if you are ready.

22 THE COURT: Yes.

23 MR. GARBER: So, when you say these three sets of 24 factors, this is page 33, I think it should say "may" instead 25 of "should" because you are also saying that they're not all

DAi5zem3

Charge Conference

1 inclusive.

2 MR. SKINNER: I'm sorry. Where are we?

3 MR. GARBER: 33; three sets of factors may inform your 4 finding on ownership.

5 MR. SKINNER: No objection.

6 MR. GARBER: Also, up above that, and this is just two 7 lines above starting: Were not held under their names. It 8 should say were not incorporated under their names.

9 THE COURT: Is that okay?

10 MR. SKINNER: I'm sorry.

11 MR. GARBER: The word "held" suggests that it is --

12 MR. SKINNER: No objection.

13 MR. GARBER: We are done with fraudulent 14 incorporation.

15 THE COURT: Anything else on fraudulent incorporation?

16 MR. SKINNER: Should it be not incorporated?

17 MR. GARBER: Were not incorporated. Held gets 18 replaced with incorporated.

19 MR. SKINNER: I see. I'm sorry, your Honor. It is 20 fine. I was thinking it is not with respect to Mr. Zemlyansky 21 and Mr. Danilovich.

22 THE COURT: Right. Okay.

23 Okay, what is next? Knowingly and willfully?

24 MR. SKINNER: Our next change would be on page 36 with 25 conscious avoidance.

DAi5zem3

Charge Conference

1 MR. MYERS: Judge, I'm sorry. Can we go back to page 2 34 at the bottom?

3 THE COURT: Yes.

4 MR. GERMAN: Hold on.

5 (counsel conferring)

6 MR. GARBER: Let's start with, this is page 34, 7 misrepresentation in billing, and this third line down: Caused 8 to be submitted fraudulent insurance claims for medical 9 treatments that they knew that, and you would insert after that 10 they "they knew."

11 MR. SKINNER: Your Honor, we have directly following 12 this section an instruction on knowingly and willfully. There 13 is no reason to incorporate that element into the 14 misrepresentation element. They're separate concepts and we 15 don't need to be reinforcing over and over again.

16 THE COURT: I think that's right.

17 MR. GARBER: Okay. Well then just to preserve this 18 further, when you go back to misrepresentation about ownership 19 in the first paragraph we do think that you determine that they 20 knew were not in fact the owners and that they knew were in 21 fact owners of the PCs, we think that should be in there too, 22 but you understand the logic of that fails under your ruling.

23 THE COURT: Okay. Knowingly and willfully.

24 MR. SKINNER: We have nothing, your Honor. On 36 we 25 did. Sorry. I don't know if the defendants have anything

DAi5zem3

Charge Conference

1 before that.

2 MR. GARBER: Conscious avoidance?

3 MR. SKINNER: Yes.

4 MR. GARBER: Yes.

5 Okay, I have two words: Rick Debiasi. And I'm going 6 to just quickly, okay, there was a section of his plea
7 allocution that was taken out and I was cross-examining him 8 about that and before lunch he was very equivocal on whether or 9 not he knew what he was doing was wrong, and this was a guy who 10 was -- there was kickbacks associated with it and I believe 11 fraudulent incorporation. Then what happened after lunch was 12 Rick Debiasi was rehabilitated by Mr. Noble, very effectively, 13 with the end of the plea allocution where he said then: The 14 court accepted your plea? But the whole middle section where 15 he's fumferring around and everybody, by the way, is fumferring 16 around about whether or not he did anything wrong is taken out.

17 I think that's terribly unfair in conjunction with a 18 conscious avoidance charge because here is a guy who is a 19 businessman, chiropractor, and he doesn't even know what he is 20 doing is wrong. So, if they're going to be arguing that the 21 defendants knew or should have known what they were doing was 22 wrong getting involved in these clinics or these PCs, there was 23 evidence out there that even somebody who was sophisticated 24 didn't understand it and we were prevented from making that 25 argument effectively through Rick Debiasi's testimony.

DAi5zem3

Charge Conference

1                   So, I don't think they should be able to benefit from 2 a conscious avoidance charge under these circumstances.

3                   MR. GERMAN: Judge, I would just add that that's not 4 their theory. I mean, they've put on witness after witness
5 that say these doctors absolutely knew what was going on. So, 6 to somehow allow them now to argue in the alternative that,
7 well, we have all our evidence that suggests that they did know 8 but even if they didn't know and they turned the blind eye 9 they're guilty anyway, it just seems that they would be 10 speaking out of both sides of their mouth.

11                  MR. SKINNER: Your Honor, look. I don't have the 12 cases in front of me because frankly I didn't think we were 13 going to be arguing about the propriety of a conscious 14 avoidance instruction and I think it is a necessary instruction 15 because I think in a case like this it obviously applies 16 because the Second Circuit has held, I can proffer, because I 17 have briefed it recently, that the government is well within 18 its rights to make alternative arguments that the defendants 19 actually knew what was happening and, even if they didn't, that 20 there was conscious avoidance and the evidence of actual 21 knowledge can be used to prove conscious avoidance. Clearly, 22 this is a case where conscious avoidance applies.

23                  THE COURT: I agree. I am inclined to include it. I 24 mean I know there was -- I think it is sort of an alternative 25 theory. There is a lot of evidence about a lot of different

DAi5zem3

Charge Conference

1 things and I think one of, you know, in various situations 2 there is evidence from which a jury can conclude that the 3 deliberate -- it does say deliberate, that they deliberately 4 closed their eyes to what otherwise would have been obvious and 5 I think that's a fair charge.

6 MR. GARBER: I would then, in the alternative, I would 7 ask you to martial this charge and make reference to Rick 8 Debiasi and Sander Koyfman's testimony.

9 MR. SKINNER: What does one have to do with the other, 10 your Honor?

11 MR. GARBER: This is a due process argument that I am 12 making. We were prevented, okay, from fully developing how 13 complicated, ambiguous this concept of fraudulent 14 incorporation. And kickbacks, by the way, are to people who 15 have been in the profession for many, many years. We were 16 hamstring on that front and for you to now capitalize or 17 exploit this novel theory buttressed by conscious avoidance 18 which, by the way, I understand the Second Circuit has allowed 19 and so has essentially every other circuit in the country, but 20 there was a lot of litigation that surfaced. It tampers with 21 the burden of proof and it tampers with proof beyond a 22 reasonable doubt and just because the Second Circuit says it is 23 okay it doesn't mean it is not a marginal concept that cuts the 24 heart of our rights as criminal defendants. It is there but 25 you shouldn't be able to exploit it and at the same time

DAi5zem3

Charge Conference

1 exploit it in a case where we are prevented from developing 2 things that could speak to it.

3 MR. SKINNER: I think there is ample opportunity by -- 4 defense counsel in this case exploited to some degree of 5 success to develop the complicated nature of the facts that are 6 at issue. I don't think that the portion of Mr. Debiasi's plea 7 transcript that was excluded was relevant and was properly 8 excluded. I also don't think that any legal charge should be 9 hinged back to the specific facts of what a particular witness 10 was permitted to testify to.

11 Conscious avoidance is the law. The Second Circuit 12 said it is proper. It applies in cases like this and we would 13 object to excluding it or to hinging it back to Mr. Debiasi's 14 testimony. And our only change is minor and it is the 15 beginning of the third-party, rather than saying an argument by 16 the government of, just starting that sentence with conscious
17 avoidance is not a substitute for proof. Just capitalize the C 18 on conscious avoidance and start the sentence right there.

19 THE COURT: Say that again?

20 MR. SKINNER: Just delete the phrase "an argument by 21 the government of."

22 MR. GERSHFELD: Judge, I would object to that. That's 23 the government's position. They're changing the theory and the 24 jury should know that it is their choice to change that theory.

25 MR. SKINNER: Look. It is a suggestion, your Honor.

DAi5zem3

Charge Conference

1 It is also not -- it is not crucial. It is our suggestion if 2 we can move on.

3 MR. GERMAN: We object.

4 THE COURT: I'm going to keep it as it is.

5 Wait. Conscious avoidance is not a substitute for 6 proof? That doesn't make sense, does it?

7 MR. SKINNER: Let's just leave it as it is, your 8 Honor. We are fine with it. I am looking at our proposed 9 charge, it was in our proposed charge so let's keep it in.

10 THE COURT: Okay. What is next?

11 MR. SKINNER: The good faith defense. The government 12 has an objection to both good faith defense and fundamental 13 ambiguity defense. We feel more strongly about the fundamental 14 ambiguity defense and that's for the reasons that we explained 15 in the letter we sent.

16 THE COURT: Let me tell you, part of the reason I am 17 inclined to take out the fundamental ambiguity defense I think 18 some of the reasons are stated in your letter, but also I think 19 some of the work that is done by that defense is in the good 20 faith defense. I mean, I do say in the good faith defense --

21 MR. SKINNER: That's fine, your Honor. We don't 22 dispute the Court certainly has the discretion to include it.
23 We think both of these are really just the flip side of the 24 intent coin. I mean, it is all the government has to prove 25 intent but certainly we're -- we have strong feelings about the

DAi5zem3

Charge Conference

1 fundamental ambiguity and we would object to that and we can 2 live with the good faith defense because we know the Court has 3 the discretion to include it and there is plenty of Second 4 Circuit law saying that it is permissible.

5 MR. CREIZMAN: The only issue I think would be the 6 representation, the statement that is the basis of the fraud, 7 at least on the ownership issue is the NF-3 and it is a 8 question about who is the owner and what are your licensing 9 credentials and if that's ambiguous and someone could interpret 10 that reasonably to mean that the paper owner of the PC, for 11 lack of a better word, I think that requires this charge or --

12 MR. SKINNER: Your Honor, this is not a case -- this 13 is not a false statement case, it is a fraud case. Fraud is 14 broader than false statements and our allegations of fraud are 15 not limited to the NF-3. For example, Dr. Gabinskaya 16 testified, we believe falsely, in the EUO to an insurance 17 company in furtherance of the fraud with regard to her 18 ownership. So, it is not like if the jury were to find that 19 the NF-3 were confusing the defendants win. There is plenty of 20 other evidence here.

21 But, in any event, look. I agree with the Court. I 22 think that what is trying to be addressed here is covered by 23 the good faith defense and I think that there is a number of 24 problems with the fundamental ambiguity defense that we 25 explained in our letter. I mean, it just doesn't apply in

DAi5zem3

Charge Conference

1 fraud cases.

2 MR. GARBER: Although it is not a false statements
3 case it is a material misrepresentation case and the material 4 misrepresentation centers around that question of ownership in 5 the NF-3. So, think it begs for this fraudulent or this 6 fundamental ambiguity language. You can collapse the two.
7 Maybe there is a way to, you know, streamline and put it into 8 the good faith section.

9 THE COURT: But the way the law has used fundamental 10 ambiguity seems to be, as a matter of law, I, Appellate Court, 11 conclude that, you know, this thing is fundamentally ambiguous
12 so I don't know that that line of cases, when I looked at them, 13 it actually didn't seem to be in the context of jury 14 instructions to tell the jury what was -- I mean it almost 15 seems like a Rule 29 motion at the end of the case where I look 16 at the evidence and I say, well, what evidence was there that 17 there was a false representation -- misrepresentation about 18 ownership? Do I, as a matter of law, determine that that was 19 fundamentally ambiguous as opposed to the jury deciding that.

20 MR. GARBER: If you are going to deny this and you are 21 going to take this out I would move to amend our Rule 29 motion 22 and argue that that question is fundamentally ambiguous and cut 23 the doctors out of the fraudulent incorporation component of 24 this charge.

25 MR. CREIZMAN: I refer to my Rule 29 statements of

DAi5zem3

Charge Conference

1 yesterday.

2 THE COURT: What's that?

3 MR. CREIZMAN: I refer to my Rule 29 statements of 4 yesterday in the case with the fundamental ambiguity. That is, 5 I think, part of my Rule 29 motion.

6 THE COURT: Right.

7 MR. SKINNER: Look. I think it really goes to it 8 would be like dismissing the indictment. It is before you even 9 get to the trial but, in any event, for purposes of the 10 instruction, we think it is not part of the Court's 11 instruction. If they want to include it as part of the Rule 29 12 argument, that's fine.

13 THE COURT: Let me ask you a related question which is 14 when I think about a Rule 29 motion or motions after a verdict.
15 I have been planning to do a general verdict form along the 16 lines of what the government submitted but one thought I had is 17 that, you know, there is two distinct types of fraud alleged.
18 Would it make sense to do a special interrogatory or something 19 to sus out whether the jury is finding fraud on one theory 20 versus the other. It might just complicate things too much.
21 I'm not sure if it is worthwhile.

22 MR. SKINNER: We think that's right. Typically you 23 only do a special verdict form where there is a different 24 statutory maximum, where there is some difference in the 25 punishment that might play that, for instance in a money

DAi5zem3

Charge Conference

1 laundering statute.

2 MR. GARBER: We agree with that, by the way.

3 MR. SKINNER: That's fine.

4 THE COURT: You agree.

5 MR. GARBER: We don't think we need a special verdict 6 form.

7 THE COURT: Okay.

8 Anything else after that one?

9 MR. SKINNER: We have one change on page 38.

10 THE COURT: Yes?

11 MR. SKINNER: The parties have stipulated with respect 12 to venue as well as interstate commerce so I think where they 13 come up we should just be noting the parties have stipulated 14 that the interstate commerce requirement was satisfied in this 15 case. So, for instance, in the last sentence on 38, rather 16 than saying I will provide more detailed instructions on 17 interstate commerce, later we think the Court can simply say 18 the parties have stipulated that the interstate commerce 19 requirement was satisfied in this case.

20 THE COURT: Any objection?

21 MR. GERMAN: No, your Honor.

22 THE COURT: Great. But we do want the stuff that I
23 have there about health care benefit programs? Oh, I say, I 24 instruct you as a matter of law that they are health care 25 benefit programs.

DAi5zem3

Charge Conference

1                   MR. SKINNER: Yes. I think you already did that in 2 that one.

3                   THE COURT: Okay. And that's the same of the RICO 4 charge, the interstate commerce?

5                   MR. SKINNER: Yes. That's correct, your Honor.

6                   THE COURT: Yes.

7                   MR. SKINNER: For all the counts in the indictment as 8 well as the money laundering charge.

9                   THE COURT: Okay.

10                  MR. SKINNER: So, we had it on page 43, 49, 51 and 57.

11                  MR. GERMAN: What is that, Peter?

12                  THE COURT: That's the interstate commerce.

13                  MR. GERMAN: Okay.

14                  THE COURT: Is that right?

15                  MR. SKINNER: Yes. That's the one we just did.

16                  In addition at page 38, the interstate commerce 17 appears on pages 43, 49, 51 and 57.

18                  THE COURT: Okay.

19                  MR. CREIZMAN: If Mr. Skinner could just repeat this?
20 I just couldn't hear.

21                  THE COURT: The pages?

22                  MR. CREIZMAN: No, the issue on those pages.

23                  THE COURT: The parties have stipulated that the 24 interstate commerce element is satisfied in this case.

25                  MR. CREIZMAN: Oh. Okay.

DAi5zem3

Charge Conference

1                   MR. SKINNER: Your Honor, I'm sorry, it is actually, 2 it is not on page 43. I think I misread the note.

3                   THE COURT: We can just search for it.

4                   MR. SKINNER: That's fine, your Honor.

5                   THE COURT: We will give it another look as well, but.

6                   MR. SKINNER: Thank you.

7                   We then had a change on 45.

8                   THE COURT: 45.

9                   MR. SKINNER: After the paragraph that quotes the 10 statute, I think it should say in order to prove a defendant 11 guilty of mail fraud rather than health care fraud.

12                  THE COURT: I'm sorry. Say that again?

13                  MR. SKINNER: After the paragraph that quotes the 14 statute.

15                  THE COURT: Yes.

16                  MR. SKINNER: The next paragraph there says in order 17 to prove a defendant guilty it says of health care fraud.

18                  THE COURT: Right.

19                  MR. SKINNER: It should be mail fraud.

20                  THE COURT: Yes.

21                  Anything else?

22                  MR. SKINNER: In the venue section on page 62, again, 23 we should make a notation that the parties have agreed that the 24 venue requirement has been satisfied with respect to each count 25 of the indictment.

DAi5zem3

Charge Conference

1           THE COURT: Shall we just take it out?

2           MR. SKINNER: I think --

3           THE COURT: Okay.

4           MR. SKINNER: I think we should probably just note 5 that it is stipulated. I understand why you are saying we 6 should just take it out but I'm not sure if that is proper or 7 not since it is actually a requirement of the statute.

8           THE COURT: Okay.

9           MR. SKINNER: Then the only other thing that I have is 10 on page 67.

11           Sometimes the Courts will instruct the jury to vote 12 for a foreperson or that the person in chair 1 is the 13 foreperson. I wasn't sure if the Court wanted to give them any 14 idea what to do because often times the first note out is how 15 do we pick a foreperson.

16           THE COURT: Yes. I think I'll add something in there 17 just telling them to choose a foreperson as soon as they start.

18           MR. SKINNER: Okay. That's fine, your Honor.

19           MR. NOBLE: And, your Honor, I just note for the 20 record that Mr. Zemlyansky's name in the caption, it is missing 21 the H, and I believe it is spelled with an H on some of the 22 other pages.

23           THE COURT: Yes. We caught that.

24           MR. NOBLE: Okay.

25           MR. SKINNER: And also Mr. Fischetti had wanted to

DAi5zem3

Charge Conference

1 strike the a/k/a Russian Mike from the caption because there 2 was no evidence that he was referred to as Russian Mike. We 3 agree with that and we will redact that out of the -- if the 4 Court is going to send an indictment to the jury we will 5 prepare a redacted indictment that takes it out.

6 MR. CREIZMAN: On that note, I also believe there was 7 no evidence as to Mike Daniels.

8 MR. SKINNER: That's fine too -- oh.

9 MR. KIM: That was in a phone call.

10 MR. SKINNER: Mr. Kim is telling me there was a phone 11 call where he was referred to as Mike Daniels.

12 THE COURT: Okay.

13 MR. CREIZMAN: Well, the Fat should be spelled 14 P-H-A-T. I'm sorry.

15 THE COURT: Was there a Slim?

16 MR. CREIZMAN: Yes, there was.

17 MR. GERMAN: There was reference to Slim.

18 THE COURT: Do you want to keep those in?

19 MR. SKINNER: We think we should keep them in because 20 there was evidence that he was referred to by the nicknames.

21 THE COURT: You were joking about the P-H-A-T?

22 MR. CREIZMAN: Yes. Definitely.

23 MR. GERMAN: Your Honor, just one last issue and it is 24 probably, I don't know if it would be ZZ or AA, you ran out of 25 letters in the alphabet in your introductory instructions, but

DAi5zem3

Charge Conference

1 I would ask for the same limiting instruction that you gave on 2 voir dire regarding Dr. Vitoulis' suspension.

3 THE COURT: Where is that?

4 MR. GERMAN: I'm just saying in terms of where to put 5 it, I guess it would be part of the introductory instructions.
6 But, on voir dire you gave an instruction at the opening of the 7 case about a suspension and I forget the exact language. I 8 could find it, obviously in the transcript, and I will be happy 9 to just verbatim type it out and send it to your chambers.

10 THE COURT: I said something about it is just a civil 11 matter and --

12 MR. GERMAN: I will find it in the transcript.

13 THE COURT: Do you want a section on that referring to 14 him specifically or --

15 MR. GERMAN: Yes. I mean, he is the only one, so.

16 THE COURT: Okay.

17 MR. GERSHFELD: Judge, on page 16 I missed --

18 THE COURT: Sorry to interrupt. Should we include 19 that under the section on criminal statutes only? Would that 20 make more sense?

21 MR. GERMAN: Yes.

22 THE COURT: And if you don't mind, if you could find 23 the language and you can send it to the chambers e-mail? That 24 would be great.

25 MR. GERMAN: Will do.

DAi5zem3

Charge Conference

1                   THE COURT: Okay, sorry.

2                   MR. GARBER: Are you permitting the indictment to go
3 to the jury? I would object.

4                   THE COURT: Okay. I hadn't decided but I was sort of 5 assuming I would just because, you know, I have been very clear
6 and I will be very clear that it is just an allegation and it 7 is a way of making the government's allegations but sometimes 8 it is helpful for them to go through to organize what they have 9 to cover, I guess.

10                  MR. GARBER: My objection is it is a speaking 11 indictment which means that it tells a story and it tells a 12 story in very descriptive language that I think is not 13 appropriate. I mean, I keep talking about the user -- that the 14 defendants exploited the user-friendly aspects of the no-fault 15 law and I have a big problem with that. I think it is 16 surplusage and shouldn't come in and there may be other 17 surplusage in their story-telling part of this indictment and I
18 just don't think it should go to the jury. It marshals things 19 for them in a way that is inappropriate. And although, you 20 know, it is only an allegation, I just don't think that it is 21 something that they should be touching and reading and digging 22 their teeth into -- sinking their teeth into.

23                  MR. GERMAN: On that point, predominantly people of 24 Russian decent and somehow impugning that there is something 25 wrong with that. I just think there is a lot of language in

DAi5zem3

Charge Conference

1 there, your Honor, that if we are going to start --

2 MR. CREIZMAN: On that point though, if I may just?

3 MR. KIM: Maybe to short circuit this, we can take a 4 stab at redacting the indictment appropriately, we can discuss 5 that with defense counsel and see if we can come to an 6 agreement.

7 MR. CREIZMAN: I had a motion. One of my pretrial 8 motions was to strike surplusage, specific lines, things like 9 Russians and others, and other crimes and things like that. If 10 the government can review that as well that would be helpful.

11 THE COURT: Yes, I think that would be ideal, if I can 12 give them something without some of that language. Why don't 13 you try to work on that.

14 MR. KIM: We will do that, your Honor.

15 THE COURT: Great.

16 MR. GERSHFELD: Judge, page 16, first paragraph, it is 17 referenced "he" is innocent. It should be he or she is 18 innocent." Last sentence of the first paragraph.

19 (continued on next page)

Dailzem4

1                   THE COURT: Yeah, got it. Thank you.

2                   MR. GERSHFELD: And, Judge, one more request, and I
3 believe the People kind of opened the door to this request.
4 Advice of counsel charge. The government put forth an EUO of 5 my client with Matt Conroy, and pretty blatant and obvious that 6 Matt Conroy is basically taking control of this EUO in many 7 ways. The interpreter -- the stenographer that was here to 8 authenticate the document, I asked her on cross whether they 9 had breaks and whether my client spoke to her lawyer and sought 10 advice from the lawyer, and I think, if I'm not mistaken, she 11 said yes, that there were breaks and they were speaking amongst 12 one another and went back on the record. So there was 13 conversations on and off the record, and now I'm more concerned 14 about the conversations off the record, and I think those rise 15 to the level of advice of counsel defense, and I believe the 16 government is the one that opened the door to that. I 17 referenced it in my opening, that she sought advice of an 18 attorney to incorporate -- I mean, to start the PC and do the 19 contract with the management company, but -- and I was 20 anticipating calling my client as a witness, but then after 21 that EUO came in, I kind of changed my mind and so did she, but 22 I think that it still rises to that level because there were 23 those conversations off the record that I think the jury can 24 infer that the lawyer was giving her advice.

25                   MR. KIM: Your Honor, we are a far cry away from what

Dailzem4

1 is sufficient for a charge on the good -- on the advice of 2 counsel defense being merited. I think the law is crystal 3 clear on what you need to show in order to merit a charge like 4 that. One of those is that I think you disclose the full scope 5 of your involvement in whatever you're doing to the attorney, 6 then you received advice, I mean, good faith relied on that 7 defense -- or on that advice. Dr. Gabinskaya could have agreed 8 to take the stand and try and put enough testimony in the 9 record that she could merit such a charge, but based on the 10 simple facts elicited on a cross-examination that a court 11 reporter saw Matthew Conroy advising Dr. Gabinskaya off the 12 record, that's not even close to -- or talking to her, not even 13 what the nature of the advice was or whether it was small talk 14 versus legal advice, he's nowhere near meriting a charge on 15 this.

16 MR. GERSHFELD: Well, Judge, we can kind of conclude 17 that it was more or less along the lines of legal advice 18 because he's taking control of the EUO. The government put 19 that EUO into evidence where he's blatantly answering questions 20 for her. So I would assume that those conversations off the 21 record were of that nature, and I think it does rise to that 22 level, and I believe I should be entitled to that charge.

23 THE COURT: My understanding is that it takes more 24 than what there was in the record, but if you want to submit 25 something, I'll take a look at it, and I'll take a look at the

Dailzem4

1 cases, but my sense is that there's not enough basis to put in 2 an advice of counsel language, but if you submit something, you 3 can give some proposed language as well. Just send it to the 4 chambers e-mail address. I'm going to be coming in this 5 weekend.

6 MR. GERMAN: Your Honor, I'm sorry, I'm sorry to have 7 your law clerk have to do more work, but apparently our 8 transcript for the trial starts with openings, so I don't have 9 those preliminary instructions that you gave during voir dire.
10 I don't have that part of the transcript.

11 THE COURT: Oh, that was during voir dire?

12 MR. GERMAN: It was while we were picking the jury. I 13 guess there were veneer persons at that point. And that's when 14 you gave that limiting instruction. I don't know if the 15 government has that part of the transcript?

16 MR. SKINNER: No. We don't usually order that part of 17 the transcript.

18 MR. KIM: We don't get jury selection generally.

19 MR. GERMAN: Me neither.

20 THE COURT: So I gave the instruction during voir 21 dire? That's odd.

22 MR. GERMAN: Sure. Absolutely.

23 MR. GARBER: The question about it. It was a voir 24 dire question to them about this issue.

25 THE COURT: Oh, got it. Okay. I remember.

Dailzem4

1                   MR. GERMAN: Oh, it may be in the voir dire 2 questionnaire, actually. I don't know if you did that off the 3 cuff.

4                   MR. CREIZMAN: I just don't remember whether that was 5 part of the voir dire.

6                   THE COURT: I may have the transcript. I may be able 7 to find it. Or if you want to propose some language, you can 8 just send it in by e-mail.

9                   MR. GERMAN: All right.

10                  THE COURT: Anything else?

11                  MR. FISCHETTI: Yes, Judge. I've got an easy one. In 12 the indictment they list as an a/k/a --

13                  MR. KIM: We raised that.

14                  THE COURT: We did that already.

15                  MR. FISCHETTI: Oh, good.

16                  THE COURT: We're taking out --

17                  MR. FISCHETTI: On the verdict sheet and the 18 indictment. Does your Honor send the indictment in? I'm just 19 curious.

20                  THE COURT: We addressed that briefly. I would 21 normally, but you're going to work on a redaction of material 22 that the defendants think should be out.

23                  MR. FISCHETTI: Thank you, your Honor.

24                  THE COURT: Anything else?

25                  MR. GERMAN: No, sir.

Dailzem4

1                   THE COURT: All right. Have a good weekend, 2 everybody.

3                   ALL COUNSEL: Thank you, your Honor.
